The first person must draw some type of line (straight or curvyl). Tambiã © n is a light game that people find fun because their most reproduced song can be unexpected and the music is edifying! Then you can make them stay in these teams for the day or move on to something else. Each person who catches him must shout his name, something interesting about himself and an alternative use for the article. Then call random people in the crowd that gives them words by giving them the type (example: noun, verb, etc.). Look at the groups while talking about solving it. You can also tie this with your gift or gift bags and have the design printed on memories such as bags or t-shirts for the end of the event. "Call" your participants in a room and establish the timer. For a low and easy idea, you can try to put additional information on the assistant on your name. After separating attendees into small groups, you must configure a photo or a short video challenge. There are thousands of them on the Internet. If a name is not found in any of these types of popular media, you will have to act or use words that sound like (like rhymes with GIA). Give them 15 minutes to find a fun and interesting concept that is related to the event and sharing through the hashtag of the event. The main song must have a special meaning for them and should be ready to tell the other ones why they selected it when mixed. Encourage guests to mix and meet. The last person to find a seat is to "publish a large world map on a wall. This will give a wide variety of answers and ideas that cause spontaneous while questioning and discussing the meanings of the chosen words. Invite invite To remove a shoe and throw it in a stack Give everyone a fortune cookie. Make them light, favile and relevant to your brand or event to keep it on the subject, but do not become too deep (after everything, you are trying to lighten them). The plane is " #1" and the hat is #2. The person who receives the ball must answer the most close to his right hand when touching the ball. Alternatively, configure a medium where guests can create their own avatar and customize it to adapt to them and talk to each other in a virtual world. It is possible that these people do not appear alone. Then, while keeping it horizontal, take it to the ground without anyone taking off your fingers or grip the stick. Famile, truth? Invite those who have been without a chair to meet until everyone has a turn sharing something about themselves. The use of drawing applications or notes of notes give everyone a category (for example, animals, food, sports or something in accordance with the issue of their event) and 30-60 seconds to attract what they want in that category Small groups can deepen tracking questions. You cannot use something common as "we are peas and carrots." They must invent something and explain why we are going together as a flash and butter. The first team to obtain the ring around the wins. At the end of the introduction, the person who wrote it must greet or claim their avione A common denominator, they become that team. Remind the attendees to bring a series of visiting cards, but without telling them the reason. Divam them into two sides. The group should take turns to be "" and ask the question. This is not it is for apprehensive ones. The creative ideas that make people automatically work together can break the ice by giving them a common goal to point to and forget about the inception "Touring to know", which is à Ètil if you want to jump directly. Share the results. Then have Publish it in the front of the room so that the question is not shown. Give each team a large piece of foam table and a marker. I could ask for a boll or a can of can and the first person who could produce that article earned money. Think about Dés or famous matches. This is a good way to encourage new people and avoid people who know those who are grouped into cliques. In general, it's about asking questions, but you could play with other specifics such as: two truths, a lie: as the name implies, an assistant says two truths and one lie and the other person (or people) must guess what a lie it is. Advice to your self of 13 years: what would you say to you at 13 if you could have a conversation with that person? They offer an inch and fun idea that helps with the participation of the audience to break the ice and make everyone get more involved. This guarantees that attendees meet many people roselly. If they are beaten, they have to collect the period read it and answer it to the person to their right. There is a similar version: invite everyone to write a word about a post-it and use it. Invite people to establish contacts, but give them this exercise to use. Pages to share something about themselves that the object brings to mind. This continues until only a person is between a room full of sharks. Now there are two sharks looking for different things. Do everything possible to make sure the groups are divided and people do not work with their best friends. Then they have to share according to the color codes and as many as they are in their hands. If you are using a voting technology, merge this with an opportunity to break the ice when asking for a discussion with the person next to you around some of the answers. When completing the forms of Simply add an additional box that allows attendees to complete the information and this allows the guests of mental mentality to be in the event, as well as starting interesting conversation points to break break ice. As the tracks are discovered, publish them so that everyone sees it (on a board or screen). Every time someone knows what a movie is the appointment, the user gets a point. The virtual reality network is now possible. These are wandering and fashionable games that can be played in pairs or small groups so that people speak initially and help lead to other conversations, since they discover that they have things in common. Get the attendees according to the questions to stop and then you can also see people with related ideas with whom they would like to speak later. Those old enough to remember this game program will remember at the end when the amphitríon would go out to the audience and ask them to deliver extra items in her bag. You will want to use at least two of each animal. This idea is very flexible and can climb it up or down according to the size, the theme and demographer of your event. Deliver a game letter to each assistant and group the attendees first with the photos and the numbers together (Queen, 2, Jack, etc.) and then inside the suit. They cannot leave until they find something that everyone has in common. Some volunteers can be asked to share with the most wide group. This is an excellent way for people to find others in Commit that initially do not seem that they like the same taste in music and can lead to excellent conversations and a mixed group of people. They can give clues by saying songs in which their name is mentioned (without saying the name as "I am so good that I explain"), celebrities that share their first name (without saying it, just like my "name" is a judge In the voice), or books whose characters share their name (my name is in a popular child's magician book). Ask your group that would change about your event "If you had a wand Relaxed and more likely that you have a positive experience. In small groups of up to five people, they ask everyone to think for a minute of a word that describes X (insert any topic). Those who answer "sa" to the question should get up from their seat and choose a new one. You can also do this with false fortunes in post-it. Then, invite them to "find their kind" when making the sound that your animal performs and listening to others who are making the same sound. They accumulate people with them while they do well. Tell the group to place your fingers to make the stick horizontal. When it is over, invite some people on stage to act with the crazy Libe Improvised while reading it. In the upper part/above your name, invite them to write your favorite food; At the bottom your favorite place. Karaoke is always a good ice switch experience and union, but except for that event late at night, when attendees feel "inhibited." Have your group or groups solve a riddle together. "Have your group or groups solve a riddle together. This is similar to the side of the switch if the ice switch from above, but instead of a group divided into two sides, they all sit down. The one who wins the greatest amount of points. This is an excellent (and piping) form for people to speak and learn from each other. This is not only fun, but it encourages people to mix and give them a goal. objective.
